4.5 Consistency between target market and the service

Wealth Accelerator Plus is likely to be consistent with the objectives, financial situation and needs of consumers in the target market as the attributes described in section 4.3 provide diversity in asset choice, commensurate with the Wealth Accelerator Plus consumer target market described in section 4.1.

5.0 Conditions and restrictions on distribution

All prospective consumers must receive the IDPS Guide in Australia.

✓ Permissible	✗ Prohibited
• Distribution through financial advisers and AFS Licensees who have an agreement with Netwealth. • Direct clients facilitated through Netwealth staff who have specific training on the service. • Direct clients applying online through the Netwealth website.	• Not to be distributed through financial advisers or AFS Licensees who do not have an agreement with Netwealth.

5.1 Adequacy of distribution conditions and restrictions

We have determined that the distribution conditions and restrictions will make it likely that consumers who acquire the product will be consistent with the targeted market of consumers for which the product has been designed. This is achieved by directing distribution away from default, low involvement distribution channels and towards engaged consumers who either directly or through a financial adviser must take positive steps to establish an account and select investment options.

6.0 Distributor reporting requirements

6.1 Guidance on significant dealings

Neither the Corporations Act nor ASIC defines when a dealing is 'significant', and distributors have discretion to apply its ordinary meaning. We will rely on notifications of significant dealings from distributors to monitor and review the service, this TMD, and the distribution strategy.

Dealings outside this TMD may be significant because they represent a material proportion of the overall distribution conduct carried out by the distributor in relation to the service, or they constitute an individual transaction which has resulted in, or will or is likely to result in, significant detriment to the consumer (or class of consumers).

As a guide, Netwealth considers that dealings outside this TMD may be considered significant if there is sustained and regular distribution of the product outside the target market. For example, more than half the distributor's total retail distribution conduct in relation to the service, measured over a calendar quarter, is outside of the target market.

7.0 TMD review

Periodic review	The review of this TMD will be completed within no longer than 1 year and 3 months from each effective date. It may be reviewed at any time, including upon the occurrence of one of the review triggers mentioned below.

This document is for general use. Modification of content is prohibited unless you have Netwealth's express prior written consent.

Review triggers	Any one or more of the following scenarios will trigger a review of this TMD: 1. Where Netwealth has determined that any of the following has occurred: a. ASIC reportable significant dealing outside of TMD. b. Significant or unexpectedly high number of complaints (as defined in section 994A(1) of the Corporations Act 2001) relating to the product where Netwealth considers this reasonably suggests that this TMD is no longer appropriate. c. Material change to key product attributes, terms and/or conditions where Netwealth considers this reasonably suggests that this TMD is no longer appropriate. d. The use of Product Intervention Powers, regulator orders or directions in relation to the distribution of this product where Netwealth considers this reasonably suggests that this TMD is no longer appropriate. e. A significant breach event relating to the design or distribution of this product where Netwealth considers this reasonably suggests that (i) this product is unsuitable for a particular cohort of consumers and (ii) the TMD may no longer be appropriate. f. The issuing of a significant event notice for this product where Netwealth considers this reasonably suggests that this TMD is no longer appropriate. g. A significant reduction in insurance claims ratio, a significant increase in denied insurance claims, a significant increase in withdrawn insurance claims or a significant increase in insurance cancellations that reasonably suggests that this TMD is no longer appropriate.
